

SAUNA LIKE A FINN

Discover Finnish sauna wood

Pieksäwood

Authentic Finnish Sauna Wood since 1948

It’s more than heat.

In Finland the sauna is not a room — it is a moment. Water meets hot stones, steam rises, and everything else slows down. Finns call it löyly.

Heat-treated Aspen

THE WOOD BEHIND THE FEELING

We know sauna.

We've been crafting wood products since 1948. For 25 years, heat-treated aspen has proven itself in premium Finnish saunas.

Thermal modification gives aspen its warm brown tone and improves its dimensional stability in changing heat and humidity. The process uses only heat and steam — no chemicals are added.

25 years in Finnish saunas

Used in premium Finnish sauna interiors through years of heat, steam and moisture.

Smooth, splinter-resistant comfort

Smooth, knot-free aspen feels comfortable against bare skin. Its low thermal conductivity makes it well suited for sauna benches and backrests.

No overpowering wood scent

Aspen has a subtler wood scent than cedar — ideal for those who prefer a less aromatic sauna.

From Our Sawmill to Your Sauna.

From our own aspen sawmill to thermal modification and precision moulding, every step is managed in-house at our facilities in Pieksämäki, Finland.

The wood behind a great sauna.

Bring the Finnish sauna to your customers.

WHY HEAT-TREATED ASPEN

Cedar is familiar to North American sauna buyers. Finnish heat-treated aspen gives you another story to tell — and another look to offer.

1. ## Authentic Finnish sauna expertise

   Heat-treated aspen has been used in premium Finnish saunas for 25 years — proven through repeated exposure to heat, steam and moisture.

2. ## A distinctive alternative to familiar sauna woods

   From the warm brown of heat-treated aspen to the deeper tones of SÁVU Collection, offer your customers a wider choice of colors, textures and sauna styles.

3. ## More ways to stand out

   Classic panels, bench boards, distinctive design profiles and integrated lighting — more possibilities for creating saunas that stand apart.
